MEN'S HEALTH

GUYS TAKE CONTROL OF YOUR HEALTH!

The average man pays less attention to his health than the average woman, but both men and women are at risk for many of the same diseases—heart disease, stroke, diabetes, cancer, depression. Men also have unique issues such as prostate cancer and benign prostate enlargement. Many of these major health risks that men face can be prevented with a healthy lifestyle: regular exercise, a healthy diet, stress reduction & regular check ups. No matter what age, it is vital that men make their health a priority in order to live a healthy and happy life. They should have regularly scheduled visits with their primary care physician and put their health first. So don't be an average man — get on board with protecting your health!

WOMEN'S HEALTH

EVERY WOMAN DESERVES TO THRIVE!

When thinking about women's health, there's a lot to consider. Knowing the diseases and conditions that are among the top health risks for women, such as heart disease and breast cancer, is important. But for many women, effectively managing other matters that affect daily health, such as premenstrual syndrome, birth control, fertility, menopause and more, also is key to enjoying a vibrant life. No matter what your age, lifestyle choices can go a long way toward lowering health risks and helping you live the life you want. Exercise and fitness coupled with a healthy diet can make a big difference in your overall health. Good health is more than just a concept — it's a lifelong commitment to mindful action.

MAGNESIUM

WHAT IS MAGNESIUM & WHAT DOES IT DO?

Magnesium is a nutrient that the body needs to stay healthy. Magnesium is important for many processes in the body, including regulating muscle and nerve function, blood sugar levels, and blood pressure as well as making protein, bone, and DNA. The amount of magnesium you need depends on your age and sex. The diets of many people provide less than the recommended amounts of magnesium. Men older than 70 and teenage girls and boys are most likely to have low intakes of magnesium. People with gastrointestinal diseases (such as Crohn's disease and Celiac disease) as well as people with type 2 diabetes are also more likely to not get enough magnesium.

SUGAR & YOUR HEALTH

LIMITING SUGAR IS SOMETHING ANYONE CAN DO!

It's no secret that most people have a sweet tooth. The average adult consumes about 22 teaspoons of added sugar a day. And that's on top of any naturally occurring sugars consumed through fruit, grains, and milk products. Excessive sugar consumption has been linked to: obesity, diabetes, heart disease, increased inflammation in the body, high cholesterol & high blood pressure. By choosing sugar free or low sugar foods, your risk for these health conditions significantly decreases. Starting slowly is the key to success. Opt for lower sugar instead of no sugar. Your taste buds and palate can be "retrained" to adopt a less sugary lifestyle, and eventually you will not crave the same high-sugar foods as before.
